'Myth of Fingerprints'

The cameras are ready to roll

By ALISON ALOISIO

Filming is scheduled to get underway Monday for "Myth of Fingerprints," a feature-length movie being shot in the Bethel area.

"ER" actor Noah Wyle is the only member of the cast whose name has been made public. Contracts with the other actors are still in the works, according to production officials.

The movie, about a family with four grown children who come home for a Thanksgiving reunion, is an independent production by Good Machine, Inc., of New York.

Monday's schedule calls for filming in Bethel village, as well as at the Lake Christopher Condominiums in Bryant Pond, according to first assistant director David Wechsler.

He said a condominium would be used as an apartment for one of the movie's characters.

Filming will also take place at several other locations over the next six weeks.

Much of it will be done at the Chandler Estate in Andover. The house was chosen recently as the film family's home. An ever-rolling landscape with a view of some of the best scenery.

On April 5, the cast and crew will be in North Conway, New Hampshire, to shoot the scene at the train station there.

Well, the first of the film crew is now in the area, and the first of the film crew is now in the area, and the first of the film crew is now in the area.

The South Hill area is also a popular location for the film crew, and the first of the film crew is now in the area.

More people needed

A number of people are being sought for the film. They will be used in various roles, including extras, and the first of the film crew is now in the area.

Whoever and wherever the film crew is now in the area, and the first of the film crew is now in the area.

The filmmakers are advertising locally for extras. Anyone interested is asked to send a photo with name, phone number, height, and weight to Myth Co., P.O. Box 1500, Bethel 04217.

Making it work

Behind the scenes, production manager Nataseha Tillmanns has the task of making sure everything -- and everyone -- is in the right place at the right time.

"I organize the logistics -- getting equipment, accommodations, transportation," she said.

That has brought her into contact with a number of local businesspeople.

She's arranged catering with Cathi DiCocco, who will serve breakfast and lunch. Tillmanns is also setting up dinner for the cast and crew at local restaurants, including the Iron Horse, the Sudbury and Bethel Inns, and Mother's Restaurant.

Meanwhile, staff members have gotten comfortable on their own with local food and beverage establishments. Skidder's, Bethel Bagel, and the Suds are among the favorites, according to Tillmanns.

While the moviemakers are using the Bethel Inn for accommodations, part of the Chandler Estate will also serve as a "holding area" for the actors between scenes.

"It will give them some privacy," she said.

The filming itself will take place in the older section of the estate, built in 1902.

That part of the house is currently being redecorated. Production people have been on the hunt for furnishings in area antique shops, Tillmanns said.

She's pleased with the reception the staff has received from businesspeople.

"They've been amazing -- very helpful and reasonable," she said. "Whether they can do to help, they will."

Local businesses win supporting roles

The cast of characters is a familiar one -- Cathi DiCocco, Ann Friedlander, Tim Hutchins.

DiCocco's part is probably the most demanding. She's in charge of feeding the cast and crew of 50 for six weeks.

The owner of Cafe DiCocco in Bethel, she recently signed a contract to cater two meals a day for the movie's 51 scheduled filming days.

That means serving meals at the Chandler Estate in Andover, at the train station in North Conway -- and even on the side of a road.

"Have food, will travel" is DiCocco's motto for this job.

She was on the phone last week looking to borrow large cooking pots and containers for transporting food and drinks.

"It's all planning. It's all organization," she said.

Her planning must be precise. She said her contract calls for the actors to be fed within six hours of their last meal. Director Bart Frouth must also approve each week's menu.

To make sure the actors and crew approve, DiCocco has sent "food preference sheets" to them. She had received 11 completed surveys late last week.

The survey asks the per-

Town Meetings:

Gilead sets up scholarship fund

By ALISON ALOISIO

Eighteen Gilead voters quietly passed a $187,000 municipal budget Saturday night, as they followed selectmen's recommendations on all but one article.

The budget was up slightly from last year's approximate $184,000 figure, according to town treasurer Lin Chapman.

Voters approved with no discussion the establishment of a $28,000 scholarship fund for Gilead students.

The money was reimbursed from the state several years ago for earlier educational expenses, and had been carried as surplus. The town set up the fund to avoid state penalties and forfeiture of the money.

Local shares of $20,517 and $69,219 were approved for the NOV budget and school foundation allocation, respectively.

Townpeople opted to give Fire Chief Ken Cole a $200 raise to $800 a year, to bring him more in line with other town officials. The town clerk, tax collector, and treasurer all make $800.

Oil-spill team honored in W'stock

By ALISON ALOISIO

The Woodstock and Greenwood Community Lakes Association used the occasion of the Woodstock Town Meeting to honor those who helped keep a recent oil spill from reaching Lake Christopher.

The Woodstock road crew and Fire Department were cited Monday for their roles in containing the 6,000-gallon spill that resulted from a tanker truck rollover on March 13.

The town's road foreman and fire chief, Percy Monk and Bill Seames, were each presented with a plaque by Jim Chandler and Nancy Willard of the Lakes Association.

Town Manager Vern Maxfield also read townspeople a letter from the Department of Environmental Protection updating the status of the spill.

The letter, from DEP regional director Paul Van Cott, said the spill did not reach the wetland at the base of Mearfield Hill, and is not a significant threat to groundwater in the area.

Another day of cleanup was planned for this week to remove "as much of the residual fuel oil from

G'wood to vote again on manager

By MICHAEL DANIELS

On Saturday Greenwood voters will decide (decide again, that is) whether the town will adopt a town manager form of government.

Most thought the matter had been resolved at last year's meeting, when an article calling for hiring a town manager passed easily (45-27).

But in August a petition for a reconsideration vote garnered 75 signatures, more than enough to put the measure back before voters.

Resident Sam Chittick circulated the petition.

He said the Town Meeting vote was not representative, and that no one he talked to when circulating the petition had voted for a town manager.

Supporters of a town manager form of government plan to make their case once again Saturday. "None of the reasons why we needed a manager has changed," said Raymond Seames, a member of the now-disbanded Town Manager Study Committee.

Bethel F.D. gets down the hill fastest

By MICHAEL DANIELS

The Bethel Fire Department took top honors at Sunday's firemen's race at Sunday River Ski Resort.

The local volunteers beat 29 other teams, each skiing in turn-out gear and pulling a fire hose.

Bethel's team bested the time of its nearest competitor, a team from the Providence F.D., by two seconds.

It was the first victory for the Bethel team, which had come in second twice in the past. "One year we could have won outright," said Jack Brooks. "But we weren't willing to bungee jump."

Nevers' team fared not nearly so well, falling in both runs and finishing well back in the pack.

The Bethel team is made up of Brooks, Jeff Fleet, Lenny Shaw, Francis Dumont, and Ken Paquette.

The firemen's race is a traditional follow-up to Maine Handicapped Skiing's annual fund-raising Ski-A-Thon.

The 1996 Ski-A-Thon, held Saturday, raised $227,000 to help support MHS program services.

Help wanted: Part-time typist

The Bethel Citizen currently has an opening for a part-time typist. The position involves 2 to 4 hours of work on Monday afternoon or early evening, and 6 to 8 hours at some time between Thursday noon and Sunday morning.

Applicants should have excellent typing skills and a strong grasp of English grammar. The position is in a deadline-driven production environment, so reliability is essential.

Please send resumes to The Bethel Citizen, P.O. Box 109, Bethel, ME, 04217.

TRIBUTE TO OLIVE HEAD

To the Editor:

The Bethel Historical Society has lost a valued member with the death this week of Olive Head. In fact, Bethel, and most particularly West Bethel, has been made the poorer with the loss of this remarkable individual who served her community so well.

It was through my capacity as director of the Bethel Historical Society that I came to know Olive. She was a life member and a generous donor. She enjoyed reading the society's quarterly, "The Bethel Courier," and when I called on her she always wanted to discuss something she saw there. From that point, we covered many other subjects of local history. She had lived in West Bethel since the 1920s, but she frequently recalled what she had been told by her husband Paul and other neighbors through the years. Her "extended memory" really went back much further and she was an inspiration with the detail that she could remember. How grateful I will always be for providing essential information that allowed the society to answer a number of the many questions posed each year by researchers and genealogists. We will greatly miss her help in sorting out some historical "tangle" that so often confront those involved in local and regional history.

As she became increasingly dependent upon a walker to get around, Olive's kitchen table became the center of her life in the years that I knew her. Family and friends came and visited her there and from that spot she could keep up with all the latest developments. It was a warm, inviting place and she invariably appeared delighted to have yet another visitor. All kinds of lively discussions took place around her table. Always the gracious hostess, she seemed to thoroughly enjoy these sessions, asking questions and wanting to learn more.

What an inspiration Olive has been in her ninety-two years, perpetually curious about the world, never complaining, while maintaining a thoroughly positive attitude throughout her long life. To the end, she possessed a good sense of humor, a devoted family, and a large circle of friends of all ages. In achieving these essentials of life, few could claim more success.

LUNKERS OR LUNKHEADS

To the Editor:

Today (March 19) I picked up a copy of the Maine Open Water Fishing Regulations. On page one I read an article entitled Consumption Advisory. In short, it explained that because traces of dioxin have been detected in fish tissue in sections of the Penobscot, Kennebec, and Androscoggin Rivers, the Department of Human Services advises that a person should not eat more than one fish meal per month from the Penobscot or the Kennebec. A "fish meal" is considered to be one eight ounce portion.

This is followed by another paragraph: Mercury Contamination of Freshwater Fish. Again this explains that pregnant women, nursing mothers, and young children should not eat more than one fish meal per month from the Penobscot or the Kennebec. A "fish meal" is considered to be one eight ounce portion.

Now, I am not a fisherman, but I have been a volunteer for the Maine Department of Wildlife for many years. It is a pleasure to give you this information and to help you understand Maine's fish resources and protect our outdoor heritage. If you have any questions, please call me at 842-1234. My name is [Name] and my phone number is [Number].

MISSING MERTON

To the Editor:

We have fought a long struggle in trying to keep our former town clerk. But we lost the fight. It was heartbreaking at first, but as time went on it got easier. With talking with Merton and him sharing with me that he was moving and him telling me it was better for his family, I felt good about the idea but not fully.

I don't think I will ever get full, used to it. I am going to miss seeing him walking down Main Street. I'm going to miss not picking up my phone and saying "Hello, Mr. B. I have a question for you." -- I would go on and ask the question. Merton is a good listener.

Merton is a lot to a lot of people. I feel pretty sure I can say this on behalf of the people that have stood behind him.

We are extremely sorry for what Madeleine did to you and your family. We will miss you. But, we will look on the brighter side and see that you and your family will have a better future.

I wish you and your whole family the very, very best.

'COMPLEX AGENDA' IS NOT A 'PLOT'

To the Editor:

I take great exception to the headline: "BACC: Clearcut Ban Part of International Plot" given to Robin Zinchuk's letter to the editor in last week's issue of "The Citizen" dated March 20, 1996. It was inflammatory, reeked of sensationalism, and completely misrepresented the content and intent (as I read it) of Ms. Zinchuk's letter.

As we seek to resolve our long term hopes and short term needs, the issues of economy and environment are polarized enough. The very use of the word "plot" suggests subversive activity, builds distrust, and establishes a prejudice against genuine education efforts. "Agenda" would have been a much more appropriate and editorially-responsible word choice.

Instead of fanning the flames of extremism, why not draw readers' attention to the opportunity to learn and to be informed, responsible voters in November? I, for one, am very much looking forward to the educational campaign the BACC has pledged. They have taken on a noble task, and I want to extend my appreciation and encouragement to the members involved.

On another note, pats on the back go to "The Citizen," Amy Hale, and all the other local businesses and students taking part in Telstar's Career Week program. The community provided terrific opportunities for our students, and judging by Amy's excellent photos and article, the students provide a valuable sum to the community-at-large. It's inspiring.

HER 'FACTS' ARE TOTAL BUNK

To the Editor:

I know Robin Zinchuk is an outstanding, intelligent woman. So I am amazed that she would be led into an absurd fantasy about the Maine Green Party. According to her letter, the Greens are led by the I.U.C.N. to try to put 75 percent of Maine into a "wilderness area." This is total bunk. I challenge Zinchuk to substantiate or withdraw this accusation. It may be, of course, that some individual Republicans are involved with the I.U.C.N., if such an organization really exists. Likewise, some Greens and some Democrats. Are all these groups therefore "led" by the I.U.C.N.?

The clearcutting referendum, if approved by voters in November, will limit wood harvesting to the sustainable yield. In most well managed forests, that is about one third of the volume every 15 years. Thousands of Maine woodland owners already do it this way. A few of the large clearcutters will have to relocate their feller-bunchers to other states to be worn out about the time those states adopt their own bans. Meanwhile, some woodcutters who have been laid off in recent years will be rehired.

Probably there will be a temporary reduction in the harvest, say 10 or 15 percent, as the industry adjusts to new rules. If the price of wood gets a boost, I don't think many people in Maine will object. Of course, this may reduce the profits of companies that use a lot of wood. In the same way, low wages keep profits high. But, overall prosperity is probably greater by raising the minimum wage.

I hope the Chamber of Commerce will take another look at this issue. Recreational industries in Maine depend on beautiful, diverse forests. Most sportsmen and ordinary citizens dislike clearcutting. Why should business people line up with a small segment of their own fraternity, and ignore the feelings of most of their customers?

HOMEOWN SOLUTION FOR BIODIVERSITY

To the Editor:

This letter is a response to last week's letter by Robin Zinchuk discussing the Bethel Chamber of Commerce's recommendation to vote no on the upcoming clearcutting referendum.

This referendum will no doubt be raucous. Both sides will get out the heavy artillery and this will be a difficult issue to evaluate. I have not yet made up my mind and will only do so after careful examination of all the issues.

There was one thing that Robin wrote, and then the editor chose to interpret in sensational terms (headline: international plot). That troubles me. I know that Maine's environmental groups are struggling with the issue of whether or not to support the clearcutting referendum. I predict that there will be a split in Maine's environmental groups over this issue. As for this being an international plot and that biodiversity is at the core let's look at what has been happening in Maine.

For the past three years I have been a participant in the Maine Forest Biodiversity Project. This has been a forum to bring together representatives from Maine's paper and timber industry, environmental groups, and state conservation agencies. The goals are to evaluate the status of biodiversity in Maine, understand the need for an ecological reserve system to protect representative examples of natural communities, and to address how private landowners, and specifically larger timber industry owners, could make their forestry practices more biodiversity friendly.

It has taken this group three years and five meetings to better understand the principles of biodiversity and the concerns of the paper and timber industry, and to find common ground. This very diverse group has reached consensus to maintain biodiversity in Maine and to identify forest management options to better conserve biodiversity. This has been a remarkable effort for all sides of a difficult issue to come together and to learn from each other.

Maine people are still confused about what biodiversity means. "Biodiversity refers to the variety of all forms of life -- trees and other plants, invertebrate and vertebrate animals, and microorganisms -- and includes the different levels on which life operates -- from the level of genetic differences between individuals to the complex interactions within ecosystems." (Biological Diversity in Maine, Gawler et al., Maine Natural Areas Program, 1995, available from the Dept. of Conservation.) I would highly recommend this publication. One reason there has been so much progress was the quality of this report.

As the Maine Forest Biodiversity Project was dealing effectively with the important issue of biodiversity, they chose to avoid discussing the clearcutting referendum. This was because there was general recognition that clearcutting is only one of many threats to Maine's biodiversity and that disagreement over the referendum could undermine this group's groundbreaking work. While the debate on the clearcutting referendum continues let's not mix up the two issues. There is agreement by paper and timber industry, environmentalists, and state conservation agencies that Maine's biodiversity is important and that they will continue to work together collaboratively to develop protection strategies. Biodiversity is the foundation of a healthy environment. And a healthy environment is the foundation of a healthy sustainable economy. This is a homeown solution, not part of an international plot.

DON'T MAKE LIGHT OF THEIR PLANS TO 'FIX' US

To the Editor:

The March 20 issue had a letter to the editor from the Bethel Area Chamber of Commerce. The letter described the threat to the wood products industry posed by the upcoming "Green Party Referendum." The letter is good, but I have a problem with the title "BACC: Clearcut Ban Part of International Plot." It appears to make light of the situation.

Imagine this area without a wood products industry. That can happen. I could take you to places in the Pacific Northwest where the wood products industry did disappear. The Greens claim that closing of the mills was not a result of their efforts but due to other factors. However, they have never been able to explain how mills can operate without using trees.

We need to face the fact that the environmental community, backed by rich foundation members of the Environmental Grantmakers Association, has targeted the northern forest lands for control and apparently, "wood products cleansing." The same people and associations who "fixed" the Pacific Northwest are out to "fix" our area. First they tried greenlining, then it was the Northern Forest Lands Study, then it was the quest for "biodiversity" and "ecosystem" management. Never mind that these terms are difficult to describe and virtually impossible to measure. They managed to greatly reduce harvesting on the White Mountain National Forest. Now it is the Green Party Referendum, the North Maine Woods Park and the 10 special places in the northern forest that they would like to have set aside.

These people and groups are not going to go away. It is a fact of life, and we accept that. It doesn't help those of us who are trying to survive against this formidable force, however, when the Citizen, which should know better, makes light of the threat. It should realize that if the Green Party Referendum passes, their jobs may also be on the line.

We appreciate the Bethel Area Chamber of Commerce Director's willingness to take a stand and support our industry.

MIDDLE SCHOOL FACELIFT

To the Editor:

The Telstar Middle School "facelift" is nearly complete. This past Friday, Saturday and Sunday close to 70 different parent, student, staff and community volunteers came to Telstar Middle School to paint. Prior to the actual painting, many volunteers sanded and made sure everything was ready for the painting crews. We are still finishing up with the final details such as having students paint designs on the four bathroom mirror frames, etc.

A lot of thought and work went into this project, and we know that we couldn't have done it without the generous help of so many enthusiastic individuals. We wish to thank Jody Lerdoux for the donation of more than half of our paint, Western Maine Supply, Brooks Bros., Gould Academy seniors and Pat's Pizza (for helping feed us). On Friday, the staff invited all of the workers to join them at a teacher workshop pot-luck lunch -- it was very much appreciated by all of us.

Again, a special "thank you" to Wayne Cummings for his professional advice and for keeping us on track. Also, for Arla Patch's three-color scheme work-ups that were presented to the students to vote on.

We ask all those who can to stop by the middle school and look at our work. It's bright, it's fresh and gives everything a new look. Great job everyone.

And we ask everyone to please save cans and bottles for our upcoming bottle drive on April 27 to help fund this project.

THIS WEEK AT THE
Moses Mason House

All members and friends of the Bethel Historical Society are reminded that the next monthly meeting will be held on April 4 in the meeting room of the Dr. Moses Mason House, beginning at 7:30 p.m. The program will feature a slide presentation on Bethel photographer Nettie Cummings Maxim by Blaine Mills of the Greenwood Historical Society.

Nettie Cummings Maxim (1876-1910) lived most of her adult life on a farm in the Bird Hill section of Bethel and seldom ventured very far from her home. She was the daughter of a farmer, married a farmer, and farm scenes are of particular interest to her in her photography. The wonder is that she was able to be an active photographer while running a farm household and raising three children. She spent considerable time in arranging her shots and had to cope with cameras that were not always ideal. Nevertheless, she has left some fine photos that are testaments to her artistic talent and mastery of technical details. Anyone wishing to attend this program is cordially invited to do so.

Several volunteers have been assisting society staff in boxing and mailing hundreds of copies of the Richardson Lakes book to those who were sponsors or who ordered at the special pre-publication price. Those wishing to obtain copies of the book are urged to stop by the Dr. Moses Mason House at 14 Broad St. between 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. weekdays. Other times may be arranged by calling 824-2908. Quality paperbacks are available at $29.95 plus tax and hard cover editions at $39.95 plus tax.

ANDOVER--Two current selectmen have written a letter to the district attorney emphasizing that charges brought against resident Sid Pew were not filed on behalf of the town. Former selectman Geri Gaudet filed the charges of criminal trespass and obstructing government administration after Pew allegedly entered the town's file room on Feb. 2 after she told him not to. Selectman Brian Mills was not yet in office at the time of the incident. Selectman Dick Plantier was present when the alleged incident took place, and he said last week he thought the charges were unwarranted. Pew is scheduled to appear in Rumford District Court on April 2.

Newry appointments made

NEWRY--Selectmen made appointments to the Planning and Appeals boards last week. New appointments included Art Marshall to a three-year term, replacing Brian Hanson; Norman Davis to a one-year term, replacing Hugh (Mike) Lynch; Jim Trefethen to a one-year term, replacing Cindy Brown; Jim Largess (alternate) to a one-year term replacing Randy Baker. Joe Aloisio was reappointed to a three-year term. Rockie Graham was appointed to a two-year term on the Appeals Board, replacing Art Marshall. Dave Schlieper was reappointed to a three-year term.

Train excursion planned

BETHEL--The Massachusetts Bay Railroad Enthusiasts will again sponsor a "rare mileage" railroad excursion on April 13 through northern New Hampshire and Vermont. A St. Lawrence and Atlantic locomotive will pull the cars of the Sunday River Silver Bullet Ski Express train. The train will leave Bethel at 9 a.m. and will stop at Gorham, N.H., at approximately 9:45 a.m. to pick up additional passengers. After arriving at Norton, Vermont, it will retrace its path, returning to Bethel at about 6 p.m. A slightly shorter run will be made to Island Pond, Vt., on April 14 at demand warrants. For further information call (617) 489-5277.

Avalanche kills hikers

MT. WASHINGTON, N.H.--Searchers Sunday recovered the bodies of two Massachusetts men killed in an avalanche on Mt. Washington. The avalanche happened in the Gulf of Slides, southeast of the summit. A third hiker escaped. The victims were hit by the snow at an elevation of about 4,500 feet and were swept about 500 feet down the mountain. The avalanche covered an area about 250 feet wide. The bodies were found in snow six to eight feet deep.

Common Ground Fair site purchased

AUGUSTA--The Maine Organic Farmers and Gardeners Association has purchased land in the towns of Unity and Thorndike as the future home for the Common Ground Country Fair and other MOFGA activities. For 20 years MOFGA has rented the use of existing fairgrounds. Over the next few years, a new fairgrounds will be built in Unity. MOFGA will continue to rent the Windsor Fairgrounds for this year's fair, Sept. 20, 21 and 22, and for a few years to come.

Like some recycled toilet paper?

HINSDALE, N.H.--Paper Service Limited couldn't find a market for its toilet tissue made of recycled paper, so the company is giving it away to hikers, according to a report in the New Hampshire Business Review. Consumers were reluctant to pay a few pennies more for the recycled paper, and the paper mill was left with nearly 10 million sheets of toilet paper. Hikers prefer the sheets over rolls, because they can fold them up -- taking up less space in a backpack. For your free sheet, call 603-239-6344.

Gun maker loses appeal

WASHINGTON, D.C.--The U.S. Supreme Court has refused to prevent a New Hampshire gunmaker's retrial in a lawsuit over the death of a man accidentally shot when he dropped a handgun. According to a report in the New Hampshire Business Review, K.W. Thompson Tool Co. lost its bid to stop the retrial. Melvin Sparks of Charlotte, N.C., was killed in 1980 when he dropped his Thompson P.C. Contender Handgun. During the federal court trial, company officials showed a videotape in which the gun was dropped and didn't go off. The jury ruled for Thompson. Later, in an unrelated lawsuit against the company in another state, a second videotape -- made the same day as the first -- showed the gun firing when dropped. The judge in the first case was notified, and set aside the verdict, ordering a new trial.

Cleaner-burning snowmobile tested

WEST YELLOWSTONE, Mont.--An environmentally-sensitive snowmobile is being tested by Polaris Industries, Inc., in Yellowstone National Park. The machine is a four-cycle engine. The goal is to produce a quiet machine with low emissions, according to LaRae Krahn, a company spokesman. Winter use of the park has boomed in recent years. The vast majority of the 140,000 or so winter visitors arrive on snowmobiles using two-cycle engines, which burn a combination of gas and oil and pump huge amounts of emissions into the park air. The current 26-horsepower test model is underpowered. With one rider it will cruise about 45 mph (the speed limit in Yellowstone), but with a second rider it bogs down considerably. Other models with more horsepower are being worked on.

Internet law ineffective?

PORTLAND--The recently enacted Internet "Decency Act" will not protect minors from obscene materials carried on the Internet, an attorney said last week. "In reality there is no way it can be enforced. Remember, we're dealing with a world wide web that is very, very difficult, if not impossible, to monitor, or control," said John H. Montgomery. "The only way parents can be sure their children are protected is to take precautions themselves, rather than depend on laws like this." He said there is software available for free to prevent a computer from receiving smut.

HONORED FOR HEROISM--Jacob Mallory, 13, of West Paris was honored Sunday with the Heroism Award of Boy Scouts of America. Jacob was cited for his quick action in July of 1994 when he was spending a day with his mother, aunt and two other children at Step Falls in Newry. One of the children, Tanya Cary, 8, swam too close to a waterfall and her head was pulled under. Then (in Jacob's words): "I was swimming around and looked over to where Tanya was swimming, and I saw her head going up and down in the water. At first I thought she was playing, but then I noticed she wasn't playing. She looked scared. Automatically, I swam over to where she was and tried to keep her head out of the water. It was really hard, I had a hard time trying to tread water, because she was pushing me down. I kept doing it because I knew she was scared and I wasn't sure what would happen if I let her go. I was holding her up by her arms. Then Roberta jumped in the water and took her over to the rock. I don't know how long I held her up, but it seemed like forever. It was one of the hardest things I ever did." Jacob's mother helped Roberta lift Tanya out of the water, although scared and very upset, Tanya came through fine. Jacob is a sixth grader at Agnes Gray School in West Paris and a Tenderfoot Scout in Troop 130 in South Paris. Trooper Richard McAllister of the Maine State Police was among those honoring Jacob Sunday, reading a commendatory letter from State Police Commander Col. Alfred Skolfield. From the Bethel Police log:

Trucker runs the wrong car off the road

On March 20 at 6:30 p.m. police received a complaint via radio from an off-duty police officer, who said a tanker truck had just run him off the road while trying to pass a vehicle on Route 2. The vehicle was apparently in a no-passing zone. An on-duty officer stopped the truck and gave the driver, Mario Tremblay, 35, of Fontainebleau, Que., a summons for improper passing.

Also on March 20

At 11:42 p.m. police received a complaint from Sunday River Security of a vehicle, reportedly with four subjects, heading toward Route 2 with possible contraband. Police stopped the vehicle on Route 2, and found that all the subjects were under 21. The officer discovered 33 cans of beer in the rear of the vehicle. No one claimed ownership, or place of consumption. Police confiscated the beer and charged the driver, Andrew W. Fournier, 19, of Salem, N.H., with illegal transportation of alcohol by a minor.

Friday, March 22

At 11:40 p.m. police stopped a vehicle for speeding (66 in a 50 mph zone) on Route 2. A license check showed it was suspended in Massachusetts. Mary E. Smyers, 30, of Brookline, Mass., was summonsed and later released when a friend arrived to drive her vehicle. She was charged with exceeding the posted speed limit and operating without a license.

Saturday, March 23

At 4:30 p.m. an unknown caller requested assistance with a vehicle that was locked, with an infant trapped inside. Police opened the door with a slimjim.

Sunday, March 24

At 1:50 a.m. an Oxford County Sheriff's deputy requested police assistance on a call of a large, loud party in Bryant Pond Village. The officer stood by while the deputy spoke with all parties involved.

At 8:45 a.m. an Oxford County deputy asked that police be on the lookout for a vehicle heading east from Gilead. The operator had reportedly taken an item from the complainant. The vehicle was later located at Sunday River.

This report highlights points of interest from the Bethel Police Department log, but does not include all reports of police activity. To reach the Bethel Police Department, call 911 in emergency situations, 824-3437 in non-emergencies. An answering machine takes calls when an officer is not in the office.

The town's annual cash flow is now nearly $2 million dollars, Seames said, "and that much money needs professional management."

Seames said he believed most people supported the town-manager concept, and that it would once again pass.

"The only real danger is if people don't show up for the meeting," he said.

Despite the petition, town selectmen were advised by the town's attorney to go ahead with the search for a candidate.

In January they announced that Elizabeth Lavette of West Stockbridge, Mass. had been selected.

A Vermont native, Lavette has served for 18 years as West Stockbridge's town administrative assistant. In that role she oversees the complete management of the town, according to Greenwood First Selectman Marie Bartlett.

"She's done everything we're looking for," Bartlett said. "Lavette is expected to be present at Saturday's meeting."

Veterans' monument

A question that is to be resolved is what to do with the town veterans' monument.

The field stone monument located on a small parcel next to Bob's Store in Locke Mills village, is a dedication and it does not list the names of Viet Nam era and Persian Gulf veterans.

The monument cost $8,000 and is the property of the town. It is located on a small parcel next to Bob's Store in Locke Mills village.

The stream as practical," according to Van Cott. "Because of the nature of the petroleum product involved and the difficulty of obtaining access to every inch of the stream, it will take some time before the stream is completely restored and it will be up to natural processes to complete some portions of the cleanup," Van Cott wrote.

He also commended the local crews for their quick action.

Routine meeting

Voters subtracted $152, but otherwise gave their blessing to a $482,097 municipal budget.

The approximately 65 townspeople in attendance also elected a new selectman, and added two seats to the Whitman Memorial Library Board.

Stephen Bies, running unopposed, replaced selectman Mike Nadeau.

Earlene Rosenberg and Lyle Wiggins were elected to the new Library Board seats. The additional seats were recommended because of an added work load for the board.

Ellen Cole was elected to another library seat, replacing Olive Risko. Margaret Hand was reelected to the SAD44 School Board. She was unopposed.

An attempt by Bies to cut the Voters also approved $3,000 for an emergency generator for the Town Office and garage. Maxfield said several people requested it following a two-day power outage this winter.

The Town Office could be used as a shelter in the future, in the event of another long-term outage, he said.

Also approved were funds for a $2,000 riding lawn mower, to replace a smaller model currently being used for ballfields and cemeteries.

The only change voters made to the $5-article warrant came under funding for social services.

They rejected a request for $52 for the Maine Publicity Bureau, after Margaret Hand questioned how the town benefits from the bureau's work.

"They don't mention us in their publications," she said. "Why do we give them money?"

"Because they asked for it," Maxfield replied.

"Can I have a hundred dollars?" Hand asked.

The money was then removed from the list, along with $100 for the now-disbanded Safer Families agency.

An attempt by Bies to cut the Council on Alcoholism's request for $1,216 to $608 died when his amendment didn't get a second.

Bies argued that the council had requested no money two years ago, then asked for the "maximum" amount (using the larger of two Woodstock population estimates as a basis for requesting $1 per resident) in the years since.

"That rubs me the wrong way," he said.

He said he had nothing against the council, but wanted to know more about it before voting that amount of money.

On another article regarding expenses for solid waste disposal, Bies urged residents to make a greater effort to recycle.

He said some Oxford County Regional Solid Waste Association members -- particularly the larger towns of Norway and South Paris -- are starting to advocate that a town's share of the cost for the association be determined by the amount it recycles.

He said Norway and South Paris have mandatory recycling.

Bies is Woodstock's representative to OCSWA.

The Town Meeting, moderated by Vern Inman, lasted about two hours.

son's birthday, so a celebration may be planned.

DiCocco has cooked for large numbers of people before. She prepared meals for the 40 Americorpsmen who were here last year, for example.

But these are different circumstances.

"You can't flip French toast on the side of the road," DiCocco said. She'll have to be flexible, too. If shooting schedules change, she'll have to adjust.

"It's a big challenge," she said. DiCocco got the catering job by being an opportunist. When the filmmakers came to check out Bethel early on, they stopped for coffee at her Philbrook Place shop.

After they left, she thought to herself, "They're going to need to eat. That would be a fun thing to do." "So I called New York," she said.

She had a tryout about three weeks ago when she served a luncheon to some of the filmmakers at the Bethel Inn.

They liked the food, and DiCocco got the part.

Bethel electrician Tim Hutchins has been a regular visitor to the production office at the Bethel Inn.

Every production crew member needs a computer, and Hutchins has been busy installing receptacles. He's also done some installation at the Chandler Estate in Andover.

"They're nice people," he said.

The film has also brought more work for Ann Friedlander of the Unicorn Flower Shop in Bethel. She'll be making about 20 welcome baskets for the actors, starting this week.

"There'll be nuts, fruits, candy -- something different for each person," she said.

Friedlander said she's been surprised at the number of people coming into her shop who are connected with the film.

"I'm delighted with the extra business," she said.

Richardson Lakes book published

The long-awaited book, "The Richardson Lakes: Jewels in the Rangeley Chain" by Herbert P. Shirrels, has now arrived at the Dr. Moses Mason House, headquarters of the Bethel Historical Society, which published the book. Over 500 pages in length with more than 300 photos, maps, engravings, and illustrations, the book documents the long-neglected history of a section of Maine that has attracted visitors for generations to some of northern New England's most spectacular scenery. Boating, camping, hunting, and fishing are discussed along with railroads, stage lines, dams, logging and steamboats.

Beginning in the 1860s, well-to-do "sports" left eastern cities to "rusticate" in this special place. Their story and those of Indians, guides, and the "movers and shakers" of the region are recorded here in addition to references to the writings of "all but forgotten" publicists, who made these Lakes known to thousands. This book fills a significant gap in the literature concerning Maine's nineteenth and early twentieth century sporting and tourist industries.

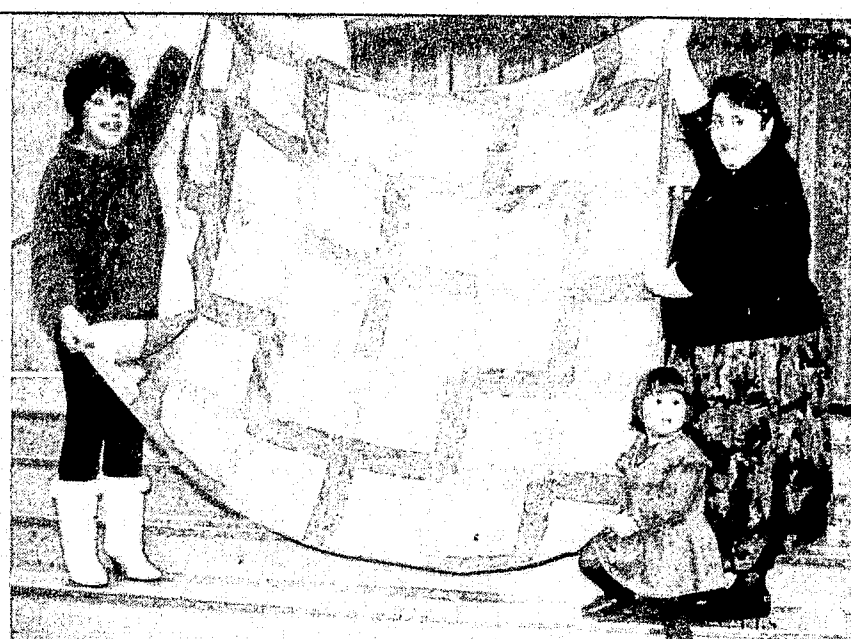

A special feature will be a reproduction of the remarkably detailed 1876 "Farrar's Guide" map of the Rangeley Lakes region, which will be enclosed in a pocket in the back of each book.

Funded by a variety of grants, sponsorships, and memorial gifts, the book has been meticulously edited by Bethel Historical Society Curator of Collections Randall H. Bennett. This project is the latest undertaking in the publications program of the Bethel Historical Society, founded in 1966 and dedicated to preserving and interpreting local history for present and future generations. In 1992, the society was honored by the American Association of State and Local History for "an outstanding record of publication in local and regional history."

Currently celebrating its 30th anniversary of existence, the society sponsors a broad range of activities besides publications. These include monthly meetings, special events, school and adult educational programs, lectures, films, family reunions, and conferences.

The price of the book is $29.95 for the quality paperback and $39.95 for the hard cover. Residents of Maine should include six-percent sales tax along with their order as well as $3 per copy to cover shipping. Orders should be forwarded to the Bethel Historical Society, P.O. Box 12, Bethel, ME 04217-0012.

QUILT RAISES FUNDS FOR
BAHC—Bonnie Learned (left), member of the Bethel Area Health Center fundraising committee and quiltmaker, Karen DeCarolis and daughter Emily, display the homemade quilt won by Joe Shimamura. Proceeds will go to the BAHC general fund. At last week's BAHC annual meeting and dinner, awards were given to several area residents. They included: Medical Award to school nurses Chris Cole of SAD44 and Debbie Gilbert and Pat Donovan of Gould Academy; Jan Stowell Volunteer Award to Marna McGinniss; and President's Award to Karen Bean, Telstar Middle School teacher.

AARP DRIVING COURSE

Periodically the AARP, 55 Alive/Mature Driving course will be offered at New Hampshire Technical College. Those interested should register with Gloria Tremblay at NHTC, 2020 Riverside Drive, Berlin, NH 03570, or by calling Gloria at 603-752-1113 or 1-800-445-4525. Those on the list will be notified whenever a course is scheduled.

The course is open to anyone 50 or older. If someone not yet 50 wishes to take the course, they should contact Anthony Harp, instructor, through the NHTC. The cost is $8 and the length of the course is eight hours, consisting mainly of classroom instruction and actual auto maintenance demonstration when available.

The main emphasis is safety, but additional benefits include a reduction of insurance premium by some companies and abatement of three penalty points in the State of New Hampshire.

Should You Do Your Own Tax Return?

Are you wondering whether it's a good idea to prepare your own income tax return? With computer tax preparation software selling for as little as $20 to $50, it seems as though there is money to be saved by buying a software package and preparing your own tax return. But are the perceived savings really there?

Take into consideration your preparation experience in doing one tax return per year. Weigh that against the experience of a professional accountant who does hundreds of returns every year. When you engage an accountant, you get something that doesn't come in a computer program. An accountant's judgement, wisdom and ability to deal with the IRS and all of its regulations are likely to be worth much more than the fee you pay to have your tax return professionally prepared.

There are certain situations where professional help is likely to save you not only time and headaches, but also money. Where you had nonroutine events during the tax year, an accountant can sort through the requirements quickly and make sure that you pay no more tax than necessary. For example, if you got divorced during the year, exercised stock options, had income from any unusual source (such as an insurance settlement), refinanced your home mortgage, or sold a limited partnership investment on which you've been incurring annual losses, you'll benefit from professional assistance in preparing your tax return. If you have a business, rental property, investments in stocks, bonds, or mutual funds, or if you've purchased or sold a home during the year, you'd be wise to use a professional. Because 1995 is the first year for paying payroll taxes on household employees along with your regular income tax, you may want to consult a professional if you employ household workers.

Computer tax software does a good job of computing the tax from the information entered. But it cannot determine if you have used the right numbers or put them in the right place. And who do you call midyear with your tax and financial questions or for assistance if you're audited? If you feel comfortable enough to do your own tax returns, consider having a professional review them every third year. Those are the "open" years for amendments.

Upton

by Amy Getling

Spring hasn't sprung yet in Upton. In fact, the last day of winter was actually more spring-like with its mid-50-degree temps than the new season's first day. One sure sign that warmer days are coming is that salesmen are showing up at the store with hand-drawn and new T-shirt designs.

Covote hunters in town recently report a high success rate.

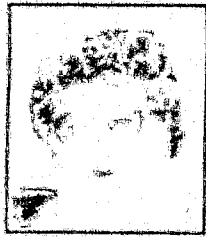

I'd like to thank those Bethel Citizen readers for their support and feedback.

Now for Trivia... Are you familiar with the fact that in 1993 the Ladies Aid members reprinted the original Upton Ladies Aid Cookbook recipes that were printed in 1948, and added new recipes which is now called the "Bigger and Better Upton Ladies Aid Cookbook"?

According to a local CMP employee, Upton is getting new power lines and some new poles this summer. Still no word on Town Meeting.

I heard there've been bluebird taps at the local Biller Hall.

East Stoneham

by Thomas N. Jones

Saturday, March 16, several people from town attended the baked bean, ham, cole slaw, and wonderful desserts, etc., supper at Lovell Fire Station. This is always good.

Stoneham Church news for Komona was turned in on Sunday. This is a nice church newsletter put out by the Oxford County United Parish members. There were nine people at the church meeting on March 14, held at the home of Mary Grover. We were saddened to learn of the death of John Fetter of Rossmore, Pa., and a summer resident of Stoneham. He was one of the organizers of the famous turkey supper of the past. He will be greatly missed and our sympathy and prayers go out to his family and many friends. He was a loyal supporter of our church here in town.

This past weekend, Walter and Carolyn Hennes met Jan and Frank Grover former members in town in Portland and enjoyed a nice visit and lunch with them.

Sunday there was a bad accident involving two vehicles at the Stoneham County Store and three people were taken to the hospital for treatment. Hopefully, it won't be too serious.

Well, this morning I did something that I had done for a while. I walked a mile and didn't get a sweat, but it was good exercise. There have been good meetings, are good for it. The dogs all barked along the way and the birds sang. There were even some their lumps too.

One day this past week Albert got a red squirrel in the live trap and so we had a nice rule in the truck to another part of town where he let him go. I hope he takes his new home. This morning we discovered that a skunk had been around sometime during the night. I hope he doesn't get in the trap. What shall we do with him if he does? That would be a smelly ride, wouldn't it? We'll see. We'll let you know if it happens.

I was pleased to learn that granddaughter Molly was the winner of last week's SAD72 district-wide lower 300 contestants spelling contest at the Molly Ockett Middle School in Fryeburg. Congratulations, Molly! Second place winner was Anna McGreavy, third place was Leshe Gibson and fourth was Lisa Goldenhar. They are all good spellers and that is good.

I have been told that the McAlister/McAlister Family club held their first planning meeting on March 7 at the home of the secretary, Marilyn McAlister Jones (who was a former member of Stoneham). This is in preparation of their common which will be held on Aug. 10 at the Giv. F. Rowe School in Norway. The next planning meeting will be held at the same place on April 18. All are welcome.

Guess that's all for now, except that we are all sick of winter, and Wm and Fran Adams have a nice new, pretty dog.

Greenwood City

by Colista Morgan

I have read that "March is February with a smile and April with a snuffle, a problem child with a twinkle in its eye."

When I went outside on the 18th, I thought of that. It was so beautiful! I actually sat in my lawn swing for a while after walking. I noticed a few iris plants and my daffodils were so green. That shows that March is actually growing and greening.

I watched the birds, especially the chickadees. They were everywhere. One even sat on the swing seat right next to me. They would twitter a little, as though talking to themselves, then sing their usual song and "sweet-spring." Now I'm waiting for the robin. One can sit on a limb of an apple tree and look at the leafless twigs and you can almost see the twigs come to life. The sap flows and the buds respond. How wonderful they are!

If one lives in a valley beside a river, there is a season talking to him all year 'round. The brook or river is, to me, better than a pond. The brook is moving water, live water and talks always. A pond is still water and runs deep. The brook today chattered about melting snow, buds and leaves. I heard one whisper encouraging things along the roadside.

Winter, in terms of weather has been long.

I know that April is just a transition period from March to May but it is also a time of hope and promise, but never sweet and gentle. I think Robert Frost had it right when he wrote April could be "one month on in the middle of March" or "two months back in the middle of March."

It, however, has much to offer, song birds, blooms and new young leaves. There will be the spring peepers, also.

Nature raises her baton in spring and from the hills and slopes the symphony begins. There will be times of hesitation but I am ready.

On Saturday I went with Lettie Brooks to O.C.R.T. meeting at South Paris. It was a very interesting meeting.

David and Mary from Norway and Robert from Windsor were at the farm for dinner with their parents, Leonas and Fay Holt. Ann and I joined them after we came from church.

I received many cards with comforting messages and lovely flowers at the time of my brother's death and at this time I wish to express my gratitude.

Stephen and Colista Cogswell, Freeport, visited Rena Curtis on Sunday.

Leonas Holt at this time, the 19th, is a patient at Stephens Memorial Hospital in Norway.

South Woodstock

Last week, Nicolas Clements' mother, Margaret Clements of Swanville, received the gold cane for her town. A nice ceremony at Swanville town meeting was held to honor Mrs. Clements, who is 90 years young. Many of her children, grandchildren and great-grandchildren were able to be in attendance. Nick and Marta Clements of South Woodstock were among those that were able to be there.

Beverly Stevens has returned from a trip to Florida to visit with friends Sayward and Cynthia Lamb. Sayward has been laid up, but hopefully is on the mend.

Another traveler that has returned to Maine is Tommy Poland. Tommy, along with daughter Sherry and two other friends, spent a week in Orlando, Fla. Tommy has never flown before and she told me she really enjoyed it. They all enjoyed touring the area. They visited with Beverly Dayton and family and Leilani Bertrum, who live near where they were vacationing.

I had a chance to visit with Judy Brown, who was visiting her father and my brother at Lodgeview Nurs-

Sympathy goes out to the family of Joseph Harper, who died last week. Joseph leaves a wife and children and is the son of Dr. and Mrs. Harper of South Paris.

Congratulations to Laura Maxfield, who won the Oxford County Spelling Bee Tuesday night at Telstar High School. She will represent Oxford County in the Maine State Spelling Bee on April 6. Laura is the daughter of Woodstock's town manager, Vern Maxfield.

Larry Billings, curator at Woodstock Historical Society, has given a tin tray with an oriental design on it to the society. Mr. Billings has also given three books to the museum. The society encourages you to trace your genealogy. The museum has the research of Ruby Emery on local history.

Quote of the Week: "I've learned that everything is funny as long as it is happening to somebody else."

North Newry

by
Gil Seeley

The Newry Firemen's Ladies Auxiliary met Thursday night, March 14, at the Town

Building with Brenda Wight presiding. Karlene Bachelder took notes in the absence of the secretary, Karen Cormier. The treasurer, Nancy Wight, was also absent, so there was no report on the finances at this time. It was decided to have the next meeting, April 11 at 7 p.m., at the Sunday River Station with the intention of giving it a clean "makeover." The members are to bring whatever is needed to do some cleaning. Coffee, etc., will be served after. It was also mentioned that next year will be the 10th anniversary of the station and plans will be made later on it.

Jock Morton and his two beautiful boys, Garrett and Noah, enjoyed a St. Patrick's corned beef and cabbage luncheon at Ras and Karlene Bachelder's on Sunday, March 17. Of course I, also, was there to participate. We spent a couple of hours of delight while the boys "entertained" us. It was fun, fun, fun. Garrett is four years old and Noah is a little over two years old.

Call to Worship was held at Owen and Sue Wight's residence on Sunday, March 17 at 9 a.m., with Pastor Rodney Hanscom, wife Kathie, daughter Nancy, Sylvia and Bill Wight, Rena Powers, Freda Robertson and Gil Seeley. The Message of the Day was: "Open my eyes," from St. John 9:14: "And it was Sabbath Day when Jesus made the clay, and opened his eyes." Gil did a special poem about St. Patrick. "Follow me," Coffee, etc., was enjoyed.

Karlene Bachelder, Gil Seeley and Olive Anderson of the "Newry Bowling Gang" were at the Oxford Lanes, Rumford, one day last week. Rena Powers was a guest. Gil was high on both the singles and triples. Karlene was the only one with a mark -- she had a strike.

Happy Birthday to Katie Wight, 12, on March 19, and Mandy Berry, 15, on March 23.

High Street

West Paris by Russell Yates
Howdy, friends. This is Monday, March 18, and what a beautiful morning it is. We have seen lots of this spring-like weather lately.

Oxford Pomona Grange will meet at Franklin Grange on April 2 with a 6:30 p.m. supper and a 7:30 meeting. The Pomona degree will be worked at this meeting, giving those Grangers wishing to join a golden opportunity to do so. Our Pomona will be inspected at this meeting.

Don't forget the Craft, Food and White Elephant Sale to be held at West Paris Grange Hall on May 11 from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. To reserve tables, contact Peggy Blake at 674-3872 or Mary Lovejoy at 674-2147. Tables will be $3 each, the same as in the past. The Cookie Walk will again be featured at this sale.

There will be a dance at West Paris Grange on April 6, with music by the Richard Felt Orchestra. Come and enjoy the good music and dancing.

At the present time, I don't know of any dances being held on March 30.

Gene Turner from Sidney called on the Raymond Macks Thursday.

Mary Lovejoy picked up Helena Bartlett at the Bethel House on Wednesday and took her to Stephens Memorial Hospital where they visited Eleanor Emmons. The Lovejoy family visited Eleanor at the hospital Thursday evening. Since then, Eleanor has been moved to the Norway Convalescent Home.

Bertha Benoit of West Paris called on Mary Lovejoy Friday.

Faith Lovejoy attended a birthday party for Carrie Hammond and Renee Kubicek at Renee's home in Woodstock after school on Friday.

Sunday, the Lovejoy kids attended a swimming party at Mollycockett Pool with the Sunday School.

Jenny Haverinen of South Paris had Sunday lunch with the Lovejoy girls and went swimming with them.

Last Monday, I got my news ready to send to the Bethel Citizen and then Peggy and I were invited up to Bertha Benoit's home for dinner to celebrate Peggy's birthday, which was the next day. We had a real good dinner and then we played Triominoes for a while in the afternoon.

Tuesday was Peggy's birthday, and we were invited up to her daughter Loretta Merrill's in West Bethel. Rusty Merrill wasn't working that day so he was home, and Samantha Murch and little daughter Joanna of Waterford were also there. Loretta was caring for Jim and Mary Merrill's two daughters, Kayla and Lindsay, so they were there, too. The kids were all three very good, and we enjoyed our visit very much. Loretta had planned a picnic lunch and we ate on their closed-in front porch. It was another beautiful day and we all had a real good time.

We left there about 2 p.m. and had a short time to rest, then we joined Doc Merrill for a trip to Locke Mills American Legion Hall to partake of the Musical Supper and dance there. The attendance at this dance wasn't as large as they had expected, so there was food left after all had had what they wanted. Dancing followed the supper.

Peggy went down to Market Square Nursing Facility Wednesday morning with the idea of visiting Mary Smith, but Mary was getting ready to go play Bingo, so Peggy didn't stop but a few minutes.

We attended the supper and meeting at Oxford Grange on Friday evening. This was to be their CWA meeting and Peggy had been invited to fill in as a Lady Assistant Steward. We enjoyed both the supper and the meeting. Richard Felt of Bryant Pond helped me do a skit as part of the program.

Gwendolyn Currier of Oxford called Saturday afternoon. She had a picture of Peggy's husband that was taken years ago and she wanted Peggy to have it.

Peggy and Doc Merrill attended the dance at West Paris Grange Hall Saturday evening. Peggy took along two pies that she had made to be sold during intermission.

We were invited to Laura's in East Andover yesterday to help celebrate her son Gregg's birthday. Our brother and wife next door were also invited and went to join the gang. Gregory, with wife Frances and two teenage children, Robbie and Karen, all came, so we had quite a gathering. Laura had really planned a beautiful dinner and we all ate well. We enjoyed the afternoon visiting, as we don't get to visit with Gregg's family very often.

When we arrived home, Red Squirrel No. 6 was in the Have-A-Heart trap, so we had to take him for a ride before settling in for the evening. I'm not sure, but I think this is the end of the red squirrels here for now.

Make the future more important than the past for a needy Vietnamese child.

Childreach is the U.S. member of PLAN International, the largest non-government, non-sectarian helping organization in the world.

We find sponsors for needy children in many of the world's poorest countries. Including Vietnam. Today, very young Vietnamese boys and girls survive on little more than a bowl of rice as they work in fields that yield nothing but calloused hands, aching backs, and the smallest of crops. These are the poorest children in Vietnam -- overworked, undernourished, with virtually no health care, and no real hope for a better life. As a Childreach sponsor, you can help change all this. Not with a hand-out, but through proven programs that teach families and communities how to help themselves. As a Childreach sponsor, you'll get to know your sponsored child personally through letters and pictures. It is a unique caring and learning experience that will occupy a very special place in your life. For more information about Childreach sponsorship in Vietnam, and throughout the world, please call 1-800-556-7918. Or fill out and mail the attached coupon.

Thanks also to Caitlin Bass for making a colorful "directory" for the front room.

Your granddaughter gets a bad ear infection and it makes her deaf.

You can't believe she's losing her hearing before you do. You've had a lifetime of sounds and she's only had three years.

You stick your fingers in your ears to see what deaf feels like.

You take a sign language class with her; you ask the instructor how to say "I love you."

Hope. That's what Easter Seals is all about. At some point in their lives, 1 in 5 Americans will be affected by a disability. We provide early screening, sign language classes and speech therapy to help children with hearing losses live with independence, dignity and equality. But we can't do it without your help. Support Easter Seals. Give ability a chance.

March is National Nutrition Month

by: The Bethel Area Health Center

March is National Nutrition month and a good time to discuss the latest national survey on body weight. According to preliminary data from the 1988-1991 National Health and Nutrition Examination, body weight has been on the rise for many American women over the past ten years. Overweight is associated with increased risk for high blood pressure, high blood cholesterol, diabetes and is an independent risk factor for heart disease. The risk of heart disease increases substantially for women after menopause. Conversely, weight loss in the overweight has been shown to reduce levels of risk factors.

Why the increase in weight?

When Americans are lowering their blood cholesterol and blood pressure, why is overweight on the rise? Even though there was a decrease in the percentage of calories from fat and saturated fat there is an overall increase in calories. Another possibility is a decline in physical activity levels.

What can you do to control your weight?

Eat low fat or non fat foods in moderation. Even foods with no fat contain calories which if eaten in too large amounts adds up to extra weight. The other important factor is exercise. Spring is here so its time to get out and take a walk everyday. The added benefit of exercise is stress reduction and time with and for yourself.

Fever Facts for Cool Kids

News USA

(NU) - Few things cause as much concern to parents as a child's illness, especially when accompanied by a fever.

Fever can mean discomfort, aches, sleepless nights, lost school days and lost play time for your little one. For you, a sick child can mean missed work, lack of sleep and general confusion over the best treatment options. You may even wonder if the methods and medications your mom used to treat your fever are effective today.

"Fever can stop some kids in their tracks," says Laura Popper, M.D., assistant clinical professor at Mount Sinai Hospital in New York. "And the whole family can feel its effects."

It is important not to be intimidated by a child's fever. For starters, you should know that fever itself is not an illness, but rather a symptom caused by the body's attempt to battle infection. Here are some tips for managing your child's fever.

• Monitor your child's temperature: The best way to know for sure if your child has a fever is to check his or her temperature with a thermometer at regular intervals. New thermometers, such as the digital ear thermometer are now available and much easier and quicker to use than standard oral thermometers. They can be a good choice because their numbers are clearly displayed and their plastic casing is safer than glass.

• Consult your pediatrician: Trust your instincts — you are often the best judge about the severity of your child's illness. After you have taken your child's temperature, it is a good idea to speak with your doctor. Your health professional is the best resource for answering questions about your child's health.

Don't hesitate to call your pediatrician if your child is younger than age 2, has a fever which lasts for more than three days or which is unusually high for your child.

• Read all directions: If you and/or your health professional decide on an over-the-counter fever reducer or pain reliever, read all warnings and other safety information.

If you have any questions about the product's label, call your doctor for assistance. Remember to refer to the dosing chart, even if you've used the same medication before.

• It is important with any over-the-counter medicine to follow the label's dosing requirements. Dr. Popper says, "All children should not receive the same dosing — the amount and frequency is determined by the child's current weight and age."

• Know your options: For years, the medicine in Children's Tylenol was the only option available to treat children's fever. Now there's a new option: Children's Motrin, the first new fever reducer/pain reliever for children in 35 years. Formerly available by prescription only, Children's Motrin is the only children's fever reducer available without a prescription that lasts up to eight hours, providing relief all day or all night.

• Stay home. Your child may need to stay home from school with a fever. Your child can usually return to school after going fever-free for 24 hours.

• Treat medications responsibly: Store all medications out of your exploring child's grasp. Teach the importance of taking medicine responsibly.

Family Mediation: An Idea Whose Time Has Come?

News USA

(NU) - Our task now is not to fix the blame for the past, but to fix the course for the future.

— John F. Kennedy
Kennedy's vision applies not only to such grandiose problems as foreign policy, but increasingly today it is apropos for personal disputes.

When personal conflicts get out of hand, the fight can become more difficult to resolve than the issues that caused it. A long, costly court battle is often the result, and no one comes out happy.

However, there's a quiet revolution in personal dispute resolution occurring across the country. Many such problems are being resolved outside of courtrooms — by mediation.

Mediation means the use of an impartial person to help people make informed decisions and develop mutually acceptable agreements within a confidential setting.

The practice is proving especially effective in helping families resolve their conflicts. Trained professional mediators are solving problems related to separation and divorce, post-divorce conflicts, cohabitation arrangements, premarital preparation, stepfamily issues, parent-teen problems, adoption, elder care, and estate settlements.

Sorting It Out

Mediators help people examine their situation in terms of their needs and interests. Relevant information is gathered, including budgets, business records, tax returns, property valuations and the needs of children. Short- and long-term goals and needs are addressed.

Settlement options are developed and discussed to ensure that everyone's goals are met. Decisions are then made by clients — not the mediator — which allows each of the clients to realize positive results.

People who have utilized mediation report that in addition to producing an agreement, mediation often results in greater communication and cooperation between participants. It allows them to be in control of decisions affecting their lives.

Mediation is confidential and is less costly and time-consuming than litigation. Research shows that compliance with divorce agreements reached through mediation is higher than with court-imposed judgments, resulting in less post-divorce litigation.

A nonprofit educational organization, the Academy of Family Mediators, sets criteria for mediator education, training and ethical practice and sets high standards for its practitioner members.

The organization also operates a national referral service with information on trained, experienced family mediators in communities across the United States, in Canada and 16 nations worldwide. Contact AFM at 1500 South Highway 100, Suite 355, Golden Valley, MN 55416; 1-800-292-4AFM.

Something for You

Riverside Family Practice, Bethel

March has been designated as Women's Month. It's a wonderful time of the year. The snow is melting, days are longer and some of us begin to go over that imaginary list in our minds of things that we need to think about doing. This imaginary list probably includes things like cleaning closets, getting new sneakers for the kids, or new paint for the kitchen. Then again, it might include more personal items such as taking a course at the local college site, a new hair style or... an appointment for the dreaded pap smear.

An annual exam for today's woman covers more than just this necessary piece. Possible you might be concerned over the 5 extra pounds you've picked up over the winter months or maybe you would like information on diet and fat intake. Exercise is a vital part of maintaining one's health and you could use a little help in getting started on an exercise program that's right for you. Social habits such as smoking, chemical use or sexual behavior may be putting you in a high risk group for possible health problems in the future and you would like to discuss this with someone.

Maybe work or family stresses are causing you concern. These issues along with other health matters are all part of keeping a woman healthy.

So you see, an annual well woman's exam is not just learning self breast examination or the dreaded pap smear. It addresses other aspects of health that are important in keeping you healthy. This is March, Woman's month. Plan to do something for yourself and your health, keeping in mind that not only you will benefit but friends and loved ones will too.

FROM THE

White Mountain National Forest

George Pozzuto has been selected to head the Androscoggin Ranger District of the White Mountain National Forest. Pozzuto replaces former ranger Kathy Bulchis, who moved to the Bighorn National Forest in Wyoming in February. Pozzuto will be moving to the Northeast from the state of Washington in early April.

Pozzuto, a native of Madawaska, joined the Forest Service 26 years ago after graduating from the University of Maine. He has served as a district ranger and as a team leader, overseeing the fish, wildlife, watershed, range, botany, and ecology programs on the Wenatchee National Forest in Washington. He was planning team leader on the Olympic National Forest, and worked as a forester in Idaho, Montana and Oregon. He also worked as an assistant ranger in Baxter State Park. During his most recent assignment as team leader for the Interior Columbia Basin Ecosystem Management Project in Walla Walla, Wash., Pozzuto led a multi-agency team to study ecosystem management strategies for 30-million acres of land in eastern Oregon and Washington. As part of that process, he gained considerable knowledge about local government by working with 104 counties represented through a coalition of county governments.

"Much of my time in the past decade has been spent in natural resource management. I've been involved in issues that are important to local people: jobs, tourism, a healthy environment. I'm looking forward to returning to New England and learning more of what's important to North Country folks. I know we will be working together in managing the White Mountain National Forest," says Pozzuto.

Pozzuto has been active in many community organizations and activities including being an adviser to county commissioners, a member of the Cashmere growth management committee, helping with revision of the science curriculum for the local school district, and serving as president of the Leavenworth, Wash., Rotary Club. He is an avid baseball fan and memorabilia collector.

Pozzuto's family will follow him to New Hampshire in June. His wife, Gill, is a native of Bangor with roots from the Bethel area. They have a son who will be joining them and a daughter who is a senior at Washington State University and will be staying behind to attend graduate school.

Rotary Club notes:

The winter months have almost gone by and the Bethel Rotary Club has been busy. This past Sunday the Community Service Committee, chaired by Barb Testani, hosted a pancake breakfast at Telstar High School. Many thanks to all those that attended and to the Rotarians that helped.

The Club Service Committee, chaired by Kevin Finley, has organized a monthly dine-a-round social for Rotarians and their guests. The March social is on the 27th at the Suds Pub.

The Vocational Service Committee, chaired by Linda Varrell, is continuing their efforts to promote the exchange with Newry, Ireland. Linda has also been active in the district on other youth and professional exchanges. Please contact Linda at the Bethel Savings Bank for more detailed information.

More than a dozen Rotary volunteers traveled to Lewiston on Sunday, March 10, to staff the phones at the annual fund drive of Maine Public Television (Channel 10). This effort was coordinated by president-elect Dan Hart.

Several Rotarians, including John Dickson and Rene McGrew, will be forming a team to bowl "For Kids Sake," a major fundraiser for the Big Brothers/Big Sisters program.

During the past months there have been several informative speakers at the weekly meetings including: representatives from Malheur Mountain Rescue, Crescent Park/Belfast, Ireland, connection, Les Otten, Jim Mann (doing his classification talk), Gail Adams from the Maine Career Advantage Program and Julie Hart from the Big Brothers/Big Sisters Program.

Rotary meets weekly on Tuesdays at 7:30 a.m. at the Bethel Inn. From April 1 through May 12, the club will meet at the Bethel Masonic Hall on Chapman Street, while the inn is closed.

Pole, Paddle and Paw Race

The Sunday River Cross Country Ski Center in Bethel is preparing its annual April Fools' Pole, Paddle and Paw Race.

This celebration of the end of the snow sports season and the beginning of the canoeing and hiking seasons in the Western Mountains of Maine involves a wild dash through the forest using cross country skis, canoes and snowshoes.

The rules of the event are few: competition is by two-person teams, all competitors must complete the entire course, approved PFD's must be worn on the river, and finishers must cross the line wearing at least one snowshoe.

The mass-started field of competitors skis 2 1/2 miles to Artists' Covered Bridge over the Sunday River, canoes 2 miles down the (class 1) river, and snowshoes 1/2 mile back to the XC Center where a season transition party ensues.

This year's event will take place on Saturday, March 30 with the start time at 1:30 p.m. For information on entering or spectating call Sunday River Cross Country Ski Center at (207) 824-2410 (e-mail: SRInfo@NXL.com).

Monthly Almanack Quiz:

By NATALIE TIMBERLAKE

Keeping up with Rev. Daniel Gould's "Pocket Almanack" for 1796. Imagine how Bethelites welcomed Spring in 1796! Their maple trees were probably still hung with buckles. (Remember: Maple sugar products were the first commercial venture.) Their old friends and families in faraway Boston and Sudbury were being wracked by memories of the not-so-long past battles of the Revolution. The Rev. Daniel Gould, veteran of the Revolutionary War, perused his Almanack making scholarly predictions, and planning accordingly.

It's time to open the pages and, finding April, pose the questions we need to answer in order to look over his shoulder and understand the information with him.

1. How did Christo. Love's Prophecies develop? Would Gould sometime discuss them in any of his sermons?

2. CCP convened in two places in the province of Maine in April. Where?

3. On one day the Sun Slow and Sun Fast time would not need to be figured. What date?

4. Date of Battle of Lexington?

5. On what date was the moon farthest from earth?

6. What letter is given to Sunday on the calendar, now?

7. Why are circuit courts being held more often this month?

8. What event shows that the colonials were still concerned about security?

9. Which two days occur five times in April, 1796?

My own responses to my March "Almanack" Quiz: (Remember, I know you may not agree, and if you have different evidence, please come forth.)

1. "Massacre" because it was brutal, indiscriminate, and unexpected.

2. Casualties of Boston Massacre: Total, 11; died, 6; survivors of injuries, 5.

3. St. Patrick's Day: Evacuation of the British from Boston after Washington had fortified Dorchester Heights.

4. Boston to Nantucket, 1796: by sailing vessel; 1996, by ferry, or by air.

5. Heavenly event, March 1 and 31, 1796: Last quarter of the moon.

6. Sun slow of clock? This is Discrepancy between "mean" time and "apparent sun" time which helps tell time by sun position.

7. Venus was setting at midnight on the 9th.

8. Vernal Equinox was on the 21st.

9. Sundial owners would use information about "sun slow."
